SCHOOL AND SCHOOL GROUND.

What Should Be Done in the Short Time Existing Until the Opening of School.

In a few weeks the fall session of the public schools will begin and in the meantime all buildings and grounds should be gone over very thoroughly by the school directors and repairs and improvements made whilst the vacation season is on. Every school building should be as attractive and homelike as it is possible to make it within and without. Everyone knows that a cheerful environment develops good taste as well as good behavior on the part of the pupils. The school rooms should be as clean as the rooms at home. Where the floors are not oiled they should be scrubbed thoroughly and as often as necessary, but no rule can be made as to how often this should be done as the location of the building should determine this one very important item of absolute cleanliness.

School room floors should be oiled occasionally and be swept only with a damp brush or damp broom. Dusting should be done with an oily cloth. All cracks should be repaired, broken window glass replaced and door hinges and latches renewed where needed. Chimneys and stoves should be cleaned and put in perfect order. Defective and soot-filled chimneys are the cause of many buildings being destroyed by fire.

Under no condition should the toilets be overlooked or neglected. They should recieve special attention. If outdoor closets are used they should be well built and the entrance protected by lattice screen or fences. Directors are required by law to keep the toilets in a sanitary condition. The liberal use of slacked lime in the vault is the best thing to be used.

With a little thought and effort on the part of patrons and directors, flower beds could adorn the grounds of every school building in the county. A well kept school yard is an indication of an active and interested community. The public school building should be the most attractive building in the district and can be made so by very little effort. Teachers-elect should manifest some personal pride in looking after the grounds and see that flowers are planted, it will add charm to their opening day of school.

Scholarships Awarded at "State."

Harold S. Downing of Wayne has been awarded a trustee scholarship at the Pennsylvania State College in a competitive examination. He made the highest grades on record in this contest. The McAllister scholarships have been awarded in the same manner to Jay E. Shafer, Ridgway; Litwood A. Williams, Port Matilda; James Sallade, Kellettville, and Francis Foster, Tunkhannock. The Barclay scholarship for Cameron county has been given to Frank Caramella of Emporium. Among the senatorial scholarships named are Robert S. Clark, of New Quakertown; J. Penrose Laws, Philadelphia; Samuel Chico, Wilkesbarre. George L. Carter, of Phoenixville, and Wilbur D. Nyer, of Weatherly, were awarded Gubernatorial scholarships.

The Electric Light Proposition.

Representatives of the State Centre Electric Light and Power Company were in Centre Hall on Monday evening in conference with the citizens to talk over the electric light proposition. The meeting was held in the council room and was one of an informal character, the company telling of its ability to serve and the citizens stating their needs. About the only definite thing accomplished was an arrangement whereby several street lights will be attached to the company's line at Bilger's, Pleasant Gap, on Monday evening, to demonstrate the power of the several kinds of lamps.

Snyder-Luse.

At the home of Edward Brown, in Centre Hall, Saturday evening, David E. Snyder of Oak Hall and Mrs. Mary Luse of Millheim, were united in marriage by Rev. W. H. Williams. The groom is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Brown by a former marriage. The bride, too, is entering the matrimonial sea the second time, her husband having died some time ago. Mr. Snyder farms the T. D. Boal farm at Boalsburg.

CENTRAL STATE NORMAL SCHOOL

Charles Lose, Principal.

The scenery, viewed from the school buildings, is magnificent. Nestled among the hills on the banks of the beautiful Susquehanna the physical environment of the school is inspiring and exhilarating. Hundreds of fine old trees are on the campus and around the buildings.

The courses of instruction are carefully planned and are carried out by a faculty of chosen instructors of high merit. Learn more by sending for a catalogue.

Lock Haven, Pa.

The Lutheran Reunion.

The annual reunion of the congregations comprising the Centre Hall Lutheran charge will be held on Grange Park, Wednesday, August 11th. Plans have been laid and in a large measure carried out whereby the coming reunion will be one of the most interesting in many ways of any yet held. One of the attractions will be the official musical organization of the Loysville Orphans' Home, an institution of the Lutheran church. There are twenty-eight or thirty boys in this band, all nicely uniformed, well drilled, and capable of producing the sweetest music. The youths will come by motor truck, a part of the organization's outfit, on Tuesday and remain here over night. All the former pastors of the charge will be invited to be present, as well as all the ministers serving Lutheran charges in Penns and Nittany Valleys. One of the heads of one of the church boards will also be on hand as a guest.

The reunion, as in the past, will be in the form of a basket picnic. All the expenses will be met from the treasuries of the several congregations in the charge. These expenses will include $50 to cover the expenses of the band.

An invitation is extended to all Lutherans wherever located as well as to those of other denominations who wish to join in the reunion to be present.

Purchased New Paige Car.

Jesse McClenahan of Potters Mills purchased a new sever-passenger Paige automobile last week, having disposed of his Ford car to Charles Hugher, business manager of the Bellefonte Academy. Joseph Carson, also of Potters Mills, became the owner of a comparatively new Krit touring car last week.

Penns Valley Scenery Finest.

Once again has beautiful Penns Valley made an impression on travelers when viewed in all its beauty from the top of Nittany Mountain. No doubt the season of the year is at hand when Nature is at her best and when the fields of golden grain and tassled corn lend enchantment to the view. At least, the following, taken from the Lewisburg Journal, gives the impression that was made upon a party of world-wide travelers:

Col. Wm. Foster, accompanied by Dr. Enoch Perrine and Dr. Agnew, went to Centre county by auto Tuesday. The party visited State College, and viewed the site of the new State penitentiary, returning home over the mountains of Centre Hall, where a view was had by the guests that was pronounced the finest in their travels, and they have been abroad, too.

J. M. STIFFLER'S BIG CROPS.

Potter Township Native is Harvesting Nature's Bounties in Abundance in Illinois.

An article appearing in one of Freeport's (Illinois) dailies says some things concerning big crops raised by a former Potter township resident which will prove interesting to those "back East" at this time. Mr. Stiffler is well known here and about two years ago made an extended visit to the scenes of his youth. He is a prosperous farmer and mixes brain with brawn so effectively that he is paid handsomely from the returns of Mother Earth. The article appears in full:

Out on the J. M. Stiffler farm, in Florence township, there is a field of waving timothy nearly five and one-half feet high—sixty-four inches, to be exact; they have barley that stands fifty-six inches high and is beautifully headed; winter wheat that will yield from 30 to 35 bushels to the acre, and they are cutting second-crop alfalfa that will run three tons to the acre. Besides this, they have corn that is more than waist high, and they have produced potatoes as fine as can be grown anywhere.

Naturally the tenant on this farm, who is Henry D. Meyer, Mr. Stiffler's son-in-law, is very proud. But he only did what any other farmer can do, if he is willing, as Mr. Meyer was, to adopt modern, scientific farming methods; in other words if he is willing to take advantage of the increased profits opened to him by farming the right way. Mr. Meyer is a student—every successful farmer must be nowadays—and is always seeking new knowledge about the farming business, which, by the way, is after all the greatest business in the world. Mr. Meyer has been encouraged in his work by his father-in-law, who likewise is a scientific agriculturalist and whose good work has made the Stiffler farm what it is today.

Besides their beautiful grain crops, Mr. Meyer and Mr. Stiffler have just finished picking 150 crates of cherries, as fine fruit as ever was raised in Stephenson county.

Everyone who has visited the Stiffler place has marveled especially at the timothy. Nothing quite the equal of it ever has been seen in that vicinity before, for timothy three feet high is considered fine.

LOCALS

T. W. Simkins returned on Friday from a twelve days' trip to Philadelphia and New York City.

Misses Isabel and Verna Rowe are spending a week in Philadelphia with their brother, Bruce D. Rowe.

Mrs. B. M. Boon was an arrival from the New England states to the home of her father, B. D. Brisbin, last week.

Mrs. Mary Rearick and daughter, Miss Savilla Rearick, spent a few days last week with the former's son, J. Paul Rearick, at Martinsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Heckman and four children of Altoona made an auto trip to the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Breon, on the Conley farm, on Sunday.

Drover J. W. Mitterling lost four calves in the shipment of fresh cows to the eastern market on Friday. The calves were tramped to death in the car.

Prof. L. O. Packer spent a day last week at Beech Creek with his brother, David M. Packer, who is secretary of the Beech Creek Truck and Automobile Company.

James Sweetwood had the misfortune to lose the coat of a brand new suit on his return home from the Atlantic City excursion. The coat fell out of the car window below Sunbury.

The writer is in receipt of a card from William P. Kerr, formerly of this place, but now of Omaha, Nebraska, who is spending his vacation at Estes Park, Colorado, who says, "See America first, and don't under any circumstances, overlook Estes Park, Colo."

Eighteen more prisoners were taken from Pittsburgh to the new penitentiary at Rockview last week. The prisoners are at present busy assisting others in harvesting the crops on the pen farm. It is estimated that there will be 5,000 bushels of wheat, 2,000 bushels of oats, 1,000 bushels of potatoes, and 10,000 bushels of corn, together with many acres of garden truck.

Monday night was the regular monthly meeting night of Old Fort Lodge, F. & A. M., and among those from a distance who were present were W. R. From, of Mifflinburg, and Irvin M. Burris, of Yeagertown, both of whom hold membership in the local fraternity. Eighteen Masons from Mifflinburg intended being present; on account of the rain only one car arrived, and in this party were W. R. From, M. E. Dieffenderfer, L. W. Strunk, and Harvey O. Snyder.

DEATHS.

George Burket Lever, head of the well known grocery firm of G. B. Lever & Co., 1109 Sixteenth street, Altoona, died Sunday morning at his residence, 609 Thirteenth street, following an illness of more than a year. He had spent last winter in the south in the hope that the change of climate might prove beneficial, but returned in May without change for the better and steadily grew worse until the final summons came.

Mr. Lever was born September 21, 1868, at Stormstown, this county, being the son of Rev. John H. and Mary A. Lever. His father, now deceased, was a minister of the Methodist Episcopal church and well known throughout the central part of the state. The son received his education in the public schools and at the Friends' academy in the Half Moon Valley. At the age of 16 he entered upon a commercial career which he followed throughout his life, at that early age being made manager of a store at Shoenberger. A number of years were spent there and then he was similarly engaged at Warriormark, going to Altoona in 1904.

He was married on December 25, 1889, to Catherine L. McClellan, who survives him, as well as; his aged mother, who resides at Stormstown, and the following sisters and brother: Mrs. James A. Study, of Tyrone; Mrs. George Wilson, of Portland, Ore.; Mrs. Frank Geyer, of Altoona; Mrs. Alice Mong, of Stormstown; Mrs. George M. Baer, of Philadelphia, and W. C. Lever, of Philadelphia.

The funeral services were conducted at the house on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock and interment at Altoona.

Jacob Walker, a highly respected farmer of Potter township, died at his home, about two miles west of Centre Hall, Saturday evening at eight o'clock, of Bright's disease, superinduced by old age. He was confined to bed for several weeks. Funeral services were held at his late home Tuesday morning and interment made at Centre Hall, Rev. W. H. Williams of the Methodist church, officiating.

Mr. Walker was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Walker and was born near Milesburg, November 3, 1832, being in his eighty-third year. He was a lumberman in early life and later engaged in farming. Eleven years ago he purchased the G. W. Glace farm and lived there since. He was a fine old gentleman and always had a hearty greeting for all whom he met. Despite his years he was well preserved and last year he did his turn in the harvest and hay fields on the home farm, which place was in charge of his son, William S. Walker. He was a member of the Advent church. His wife preceded him to the grave four years ago. Surviving him are six children, namely, Mrs. Samuel Hoover, Burnside township; Benner Walker, Houserville; Jackson Walker, Cripple Creek, Colorado; Simon Walker, Snow Shoe; Mrs. John Eisle, Altoona; W. S. Walker, Centre Hall. Two half brothers and one half sister also survive, namely, David, of Milesburg; William, of Grampian, and Mrs. Albert Gill, of Pleasant Gap.

Mrs. John Decker died at her home in Decker Valley, about four miles east of Potters Mills, on Monday morning, following an illness from cancer extending over a period of several years, aged fifty-eight years. Funeral services will be held this (Thursday) morning in the Union church at Tusseyville, and interment at that place, Rev. R. R. Jones officiating. She is survived by her husband and one son, Logan Decker, at home; also, the following stepchildren: James Decker, Pine Grove Mills; Thomas Decker, Milroy; Seward Decker, Georges Valley; Miss Alice Decker, Potters Mills; Mrs. B. F. Boal, Rockview; Miss Martha Decker, Altoona. Deceased was a member of the Reformed church.

Deaths of Centre Countians.

Lester McClellan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McClellan, of Milesburg, and a member of Our Boys band, died of diphtheria, aged almost fourteen years.

Miss Florence C. Cramer, of Rockview, died in the Bellefonte hospital after a brief illness, aged nineteen years.

Williamsport Commercial College.

A school for young people who want a business education. A business education always pays, because there are always good positions open. Courses in Bookkeeping, Business, Shorthand and Typewriting, Private and all English branches. Fall term begins September 1st. Send for catalogue and list of 600 graduates holding good positions.—F. F. Healey, Proprietor.

WOMAN'S LIBERTY BELL.

Will Visit Centre Hall, Saturday, August 7th, For Two Hours.

The Woman's Liberty Bell, which is destined to proclaim the same political independence for the women of Pennsylvania as its "mother," the original Liberty Bell, did for the men, will enter Centre county from Mifflin county on its triumphant tour of the State, August 7th.

Other noteworthy visitors have been entertained in this county, but few have attracted the interest that marks the approach of the suffrage bell, for it contains history making possibilities that are as great in this century as those of the old Liberty Bell 139 years ago. And because Pennsylvania boasts of the possession of the original bell, which proclaimed liberty to the men of the country, there are many who believe it peculiarly fitting that it should also possess the new bell, which was cast to perform the same mission for the women of this state.

The woman's bell weighs 2,000 pounds and is virtually a replica of the original bell. The only way it can be told from the national relic is by the fact that it is not cracked and that a special motto for the woman's cause, "Establish Justice," has been added to the famous inscription, "Proclaim Liberty Throughout the Land to All the Inhabitants Thereof."

But until the men of this state make good the message on the original bell and vote to give the women of this state the same political independence which they themselves enjoy, the women's bell will not sound. Its bronze clapper is fastened with heavy chains that are not to be removed until a suffrage amendment to the state constitution is passed.

The women hope that this day will be November second next. In fact, they are confident that it will be that day, for they have faith in the sense of fair play that governs the great majority of the men of Pennsylvania. Meanwhile, they are taking their silent bell on a tour of the state to arouse the voters to a sense of their responsibility in assisting the women to become enfranchised.

A corps of women speakers accompany the bell and explain its message in all towns where stops are made. In this county the bell party will make stops and hold outdoor meetings in the following towns: Potters Mills, Centre Hall, Boalsburg, Lemont, State College and Bellefonte, on August 7th. During its stay in Centre Hall from 12:30 until 2 o'clock p. m., speeches will be delivered in the diamond at 1 o'clock. Everybody is invited to be present.

All persons interested in arranging to receive the Suffrage Bell are invited to meet at the Grange Hall, Friday evening, July 30, at 7 o'clock. Those with automobiles are urged to meet the Bell at Potters Mills at 11:30 a. m.

From the Millheim Journal.

One day last week while fishing along Elk Creek Nathaniel Boob caught a sucker which measured 24½ inches in length and weighed 3½ pounds.

A letter from A. A. Frank to his sons states that he and Mrs. Frank were not robbed in Yellowstone Park. They were in the stage coach next to the ones that were held up by the three bandits. The robbers fled just before the coach conveying the Millheimers arrived at the point where they did their work.

While painting at C. H. Meyer's stable at Coburn, the scaffold upon which E. E. Knarr was working gave way and sent Knarr headlong into an outer pig pen. He sustained a badly bruised leg.

Rev. and Mrs. G. A. Stauffer, of Rebersburg, left on Tuesday morning to attend the Pan-American exposition at San Francisco, Cal. They will go via Columbus, O., St. Louis, Mo., Denver, Colorado Springs, taking in the sights at Pikes Peak, Salt Lake City, spend five days in Yellowstone Park, thence to Los Angeles, San Diego, Seattle, and thence to San Francisco. Upon returning home the party will take a northern route. They expect to reach home beginning of September.

A number of citizens of Millheim have formed a company to be known as the Penns Valley Heat, Light and Power company. The object of the new concern will be to furnish electric current in Millheim, Coburn, Aaronsburg, Spring Mills, Rebersburg and Madisonburg, as well as to the rural residents along the route. It is proposed to build the power plant at Coburn. If the franchise is granted by the Millheim council, the company will apply for a state charter and begin work on the plant at once, expecting to have the streets of the borough lighted in three months' time.

The next big event in the county is the Grange Encampment and Fair. And it is only six weeks off.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS

Saturday is the last day of the trout season.

Mrs. W. B. Lansberry of Homestead is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bartholomew.

Mrs. S. V. Hosterman and children, of Lancaster, are guests at the Dr. G. W. Hosterman home.

Prof. and Mrs. L. O. Packer were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Mensch, at Aaronsburg, on Saturday.

Miss Marion Spangler of New York City spent Monday at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Susanna Spangler.

Ed. Brown, who was injured in a fall from a telephone pole several weeks ago, has improved sufficiently to walk about again.

Mrs. S. H. Glenn and three sons, of Altoona, spent Friday at the home of the former's aunts, Misses Jennie and Kathryn Foreman.

John Smith, son of Register J. Frank Smith, of Bellefonte, is spending a few days with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Crawford.

Daniel Kennelly of Spring Mills submitted to an operation at the Lock Haven hospital on Monday of last week and left for his home the same day.

Miss Ethel Farley of Mifflinburg spent a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Krape. She solicited subscriptions to the Review of Reviews magazine.

A wedding which took place during the winter months has just come to light. We refer to the nuptials of Sidney Royer of Centre Hall and Miss Margaret Letterman of Mill Hall.

Prof. and Mrs. J. D. P. Smithgall and children are spending a few days at the home of the former's parents, at Wallace Run, where the Professor will whip the Lycoming county streams for bass

Dr. and Mrs. H. F. Bitner, Lynn Bitner, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bitner and children, and Miss Jeanette Hanna, drove to State College on Friday, where the State's educational institution was inspected.

Clement Dale, Esq., of Bellefonte, accompanied by Mr. Bierly of Milesburg, were through Penns Valley on Friday meeting voters and circulating cards announcing the candidacy of the Mr. Dale for the office of President Judge of Centre county.

Already we hear it said that the coming winter will be a severe one, with lots of snow. Weeds have attained a wonderful height which is Nature's way of providing for the birds when the ground is covered with deep snow.

A new shed, more than one hundred feet long, has been erected on Grange Park, for exhibiting horses and cattle at the coming Encampment and Fair. The shed is a substantial one and well arranged for exhibiting stock to the best advantage.

Oscar M. Lonberger of Pleasant Gap was a caller at this office Wednesday and placed an advertisement in this issue which calls attention to the fact that he has for sale 50,000 first-class shingles. Mr. Lonberger would like to hear from anyone needing any of this good roof covering.

Mrs. Sarah J. Foust of Spring Mills has asked the court of Centre county to annul her marriage to James L. Foust and grant her a divorce because of the fact that she and her husband are first cousins, their mothers being sisters. An act of June 24, 1901, forbids marriage of this character.

Mrs. Susan Hoover of Bellefonte is at the home of her brother, Samuel Gingrich, near Centre Hall, where she is taking care of Mrs. Gingrich, who for the past few weeks has been suffering from heart trouble. Her condition at present shows improvement and her friends trust that she may soon fully recover.

Frank Smith, fisherman extraordinary, landed the biggest trout that was ever taken out of Spring Creek when one day last week he succeeded in hooking a 26-inch fish that tipped the scales at 6¾ lbs. The catch was made within the corporate limits of Bellefonte. Minnow was the alluring baite, and when the trout "struck," a battle was on which required the assistance of a fellow fisherman to land the prize.

E. S. Kurtz of Lancaster is the guest of his brother, Rev. D. S. Kurtz, at the Lutheran parsonage. Mr. Kurtz is a printer who manages a nice little shop of his own and has been in business long enough to acquire a competence sufficient for himself and family to live on Easy street for the remainder of their lives and he is now ready to retire. He has not made the money, however, in short order, but it is the fruit of forty-five years labor at the art preservative.

1,000 PERSONS DROWN AS CHICAGO STEAMER UPSETS LEAVING ITS DOCK

Struggling, Panic-Stricken Mass of Women and Children on Excursion Boat Eastland Drown—Worst Marine Disaster on Inland Waters—As the Crowded Boat is About to Leave with Merry-makers She Suddenly Lists and Turns Over.

CHICAGO'S GREAT CALAMITY.

Latest figures given out by Coroner Hoffman, of Chicago, on the death toll of the capsized steamer Eastland, showed that 892 bodies have been recovered, and that 1,000 of the remaining 1,588 passengers have registered with the Western Electric Company as saved. Of the 516 unaccounted for, it was thought that about 400 were alive and 188 still in the river, making the total dead approximately 1,000.

"A considerable portion of the blame for the Eastland disaster rests upon the United States Inspection Bureau," said Maclay Hoyne, state's attorney, in a statement in Chicago regarding his investigation of the wreck. "If the inspectors had done their duty the accident could not have occurred. We know the ship was considered unsafe by them, because I have copies of letters sent to Washington which predicted this occurrence. I may introduce these letters at the inquest."

The state's attorney will submit to the grand jury a letter written in 1913 by John D. York, a naval architect of Chicago, to the steamboat inspector warning him that the Eastland was not a safe boat.

Colonel Hannan, secretary to Senator La Follette, puts the blame on faulty laws and lax inspection. He says a representative of the Seamen's Union had called the attention of the inspection service to the danger of allowing large crowds on boats of the Eastland type.

Acting Mayor Moorhouse decided to raise a relief fund of $200,000 to be distributed under the direction of the National Red Cross. In addition to this the Western Electric Company, whose employes formed the majority of the ill-fated excursion party, announced that $100,000 from its employes insurance funds was available for relief.

The most discussed theories of the disaster are four: That the boat was overloaded; that she was not properly ballasted; that a tug that made fast to warp the Eastland from the docks started pulling too soon; that congestion of passengers rushing to the port side, attracted by some passing sensation, tipped the steamer over.

Chicago.—More than 1,000 persons, most of them women and children, were drowned Saturday within a few feet of land by the capsizing of the steel steamer Eastland as it was about to leave its wharf in the Chicago river with 2,500 relatives and friends of employes of the Western Electric Company for an excursion across Lake Michigan. The ship rolled over on its side in 25 feet of water within five minutes after it began to list.

Three Investigations Under Way.

The cause of the capsizing has not been determined, but Federal, city and State officers are conducting investigations to determine whether the ship was top heavy from faulty designing, was improperly ballasted or was poorly handled in warping from the wharf.

Marine architects asserted that the Eastland was faulty in design, that the top deck had been removed because of the tendency of the ship to list and also pointed to the possibility that the ship had been unevenly or insufficiently ballasted. The Eastland used water ballast, so that it could pump out some on entering shallow lake harbors, so some investigators are working on a theory that the ballast tanks were not filled and the rushing of passengers to one side of the deck caused it to roll over.

7,000 Were Out For Merry Day.

Under misty skies 7,000 men, women and children wended their way to the Clark street dock to fill five large lake steamers with holiday mirth in a trip to Michigan City. The steamer Eastland, brought to Chicago from Lake Erie after an unsatisfactory career, was the first to be loaded.

Rain began to fall as the wharf superintendents lifted the gangplanks from the Eastland, declaring that the Government limit of 2,500 passengers had been reached. White dresses peeped from raincoats along the shore rails as those aboard waved good-by to friends on shore waiting to board the steamer Theodore Roosevelt and other vessels.

Then the passengers swarmed to the left side of the ship, as the other steamers drew up the river toward the wharf. A tug was hitched to the Eastland, ropes were ordered cast off and the steamer's engines began to hum. The Eastland had not budged, however. Instead, the heavily laden ship wavered sidewise, leaning first toward the river bank. The lurch was so startling that many passengers joined the large concourse already on the river side of the decks.

The ship never heeled back. It turned slowly but steadily toward its left side. Children clutched the skirts of mothers and sisters to keep from falling. The whole cargo was impelled toward the falling side of the ship. Water began to enter lower postholes and the hawsers tore out the piles to which the vessel was tied.

Screams from passengers attracted the attention of fellow-excursionists on the dock awaiting the next steamer. Wharfmen and picnickers soon lined the edge of the embankment, reaching out helplessly toward the wavering steamer.

For nearly five minutes the ship turned before it finally dived under the swift current of the river, owing to the drainage canal system which flows from the lake. During the mighty turning of the ship, with its cargo of humanity, lifeboats, chairs and other loose appurtenances on the decks, slipped down the sloping floors, crushing the passengers toward the rising waters.

Then there was a plunge, with a sigh of air escaping from the hold, mingled with crying of children and shrieks of women, and the ship was on the bottom of the river, casting hundred of living creatures into the water.

Hundreds Saved Quickly.

Many sank, entangled with clothing and bundles, and did not rise, but hundreds came to the surface, seized floating chairs and other objects. Those on shore threw out ropes and dragged in those who could hold these life lines. Employes of commission firms along the river threw crates, chicken coops and other floatable things into the current, but most of these were swept away by the stream, which runs five miles an hour.

Boats put out, tugs rushed to the scene with shrieking whistles and many men snatched off coats and shoes and sprang into the river to aid the drowning. With thousands of spectators ready to aid and the wharf within grasp, hundreds went to death, despite every effort at rescue.

THE PRESIDENT'S SYMPATHY.

Lipton Also Offers Condolences and a Check For $1,000.

Chicago. — Acting Mayor Moorhouse, of Chicago, received the following telegram from President Woodrow Wilson:

"Windsor, Vt., July 25, 1915.

"Hon. William Hale Thompson,
"Mayor, Chicago, Ill.:

"I am sure I speak the universal feeling of the people of the country in expressing my profound sympathy and sorrow in the presence of the great disaster which saddened so many homes."

A cablegram was received from Sir Thomas Lipton, of London, England, which read as follows:

"I am greatly shocked to see by the day's newspapers the catastrophe that has fallen on your city. My heartfelt sympathy goes out to those who have lost their dear ones. If you start a relief fund put me down for $1,000."

A message of condolence from the organization of the General Slocum Survivors of New York also was received.

EMPLOYES WERE INSURED.

Relatives Of Drowned Persons Temporarily Provided For.

Chicago.—Relatives of employes of the Western Electric Company who met death in the Chicago river disaster are provided for under an insurance plan which is maintained through affiliation with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The death benefit provides payment of six months' wages to dependents of those having been in the employ of the company for five years or more and one year's pay to those having served for 10 years or more.

Chicago.—Exhibition of moving-pictures depicting the Eastland tragedy in any photo-play theatre in the city was forbidden by Acting Mayor W. R. Moorhouse.

HISTORY OF THE BOAT.

Built In 1903, Owned In Cleveland, Remodeled This Year.

The steamer Eastland was built in 1903 and owned by the Eastland Navigation Company, of Cleveland, Ohio. It was 265 feet long, 38 feet wide and had a draft of 23 feet, with a net tonnage of 1,218. It was brought to Chicago in 1904 and was used in the excursion business to South Haven, Mich., for several years. Later it was taken to Cleveland and placed in the excursion service there.

This spring the boat was remodeled. It was then brought to Chicago and put on the run to St. Joseph, Mich. It had a steel hull and was known as one of the fastest excursion boats on the Great Lakes. It had a speed of 21 miles an hour.

NEW TESTS FOR ISHAM SHELL

Rear-Admiral D. N. Taylor Invents Net To Guard Battleships Against Submarine Attacks.

Washington. — The Navy Department is expected to adopt as a part of the equipment of the battleship fleet an aerial torpedo boat, the invention of Rear-Admiral Bradley Fiske, who is now attached to the Navy War College at Newport.

The aerial boat is designed to carry a torpedo from shore toward an approaching or invading fleet and discharge it practically as would be done by a submarine.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels has taken a new interest in the Isham shell. The theory of this shell is that it can be exploded outside of a battleship with more efficiency for destruction than that of the largest armor-piercing shells of the navy. Rear-Admiral Fiske conducted experiments with this shell some months ago but it is understood that Mr. Isham has some new features. Rear-Admiral Fiske and a special board will conduct new tests.

Rear-Admiral D. W. Taylor, chief of the bureau of construction of the Navy Department, will report shortly on the effect of torpedo fire on battleships. It has been stated erroneously that his experiments so far showed that torpedo attacks could not be successfully resisted and that the explosion of one or more torpedoes would destroy a battleship. Rear-Admiral Taylor is to report both on his tests of torpedoes against caissons, representing sections of battleships, and on the value of his anti-torpedo net. Many navy officials believe that the new net discounts very largely the fiercest torpedo attack.

WANTS U. S. TO BUY BELGIUM.

Wanamaker Says It Could Be Turned Over To People.

Philadelphia.—The purchase of Belgium from Germany by the United States and the imposition of high duties on imports and exports by this country were among the suggestions made by John Wanamaker in an address here at a meeting at which prominent business and professional men formed a local branch of the National Security League.

Mr. Wanamaker, who was later elected president of the organization, said it is now the duty of the business men of this country to do all in their power to restore normal conditions in Europe, and proposed that $100,000,000 be loaned without interest to the Government for the purchase of Belgium. He suggested that later the Government of that country could be turned over to its own people.

LUSITANIA VICTIMS FOUND.

Two More Bodies Of Americans Recovered From Sea.

Washington.—The American Consul at Queenstown cabled the State Department that the bodies of Harry J. Keser, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. R. T. Leverich, of New York, victims of the Lusitania disaster, have been recovered. These bodies and that of Herbert S. Stone probably will be shipped from Liverpool for New York next Wednesday.

MRS. RICHARD H. DANA DEAD.

Daughter Of Longfellow and Wife Of Boston Lawyer.

Lancaster, Mass.—Mrs. Richard H. Dana, wife of a Boston lawyer and daughter of the poet Longfellow, died here after a brief illness. Her mother was the second wife of Mr. Longfellow.

VERA CRUZ IS HIS CAPITAL

Carranza Insists on Countries Having Diplomats There.

SCHEMING FOR RECOGNITION

Not Likely To Be Recognized, As Villa Is Regarded In Army Circles As Having the Better Of the Military Situation.

Washington.—Late diplomatic advices reaching Washington from Mexico said General Carranza had given notice that he would not receive communications from nor transact business with foreign governments which have no diplomatic agents accredited to his government at Vera Cruz.

Enforcement of such an order practically would cut off the Carranza government from further communication with all the foreign nations which have ministers resident in Mexico City. It would not, according to the information received, sever his informal relations with the United States government, as Carranza is understood to regard Consul Silliman, at Vera Cruz, as a properly accredited agent.

General Carranza's Washington agents said they had no advices of any such action on the part of their leader, nor had they heard that it was in contemplation. The report created interest and surprise in official and diplomatic circles, particularly in view of the general understanding that foreign governments were awaiting action by the United States toward Mexico before recognizing any government in the republic. It was announced recently that Great Britain had definitely determined to extend no recognition until a government had been recognized by the United States.

Although present conditions in Mexico are being given very serious consideration by the Washington government, it is known that no decisive action is in contemplation by the administration in the immediate future despite the fact that the President and Secretary of State have cleared the foreign relations desk for the time being with the dispatch of the third note to Germany regarding submarine warfare.

The Military Situation.

In official quarters the opinion prevails that the military situation in Mexico just at this time is too uncertain for any new step on the part of the United States, and the outcome of approaching conflicts between Carranza and Villa forces in Central Mexico is being awaited with considerable interest.

900 MORE COKE OVENS FIRED.

Production In Connellsville Region Below Capacity.

Connellsville, Pa.—Nine hundred ovens were added this week to the producing capacity of the Connellsville coke region, bringing producing possibilities to 400,000 tons a week if all were in blast. That point, however, was not reached, reported productions having been 371,000 tons, with shipments 5,000 tons over the preceding week. Furnace ovens in operation are 76.5 per cent. of the total and merchant ovens 62.6 per cent.

HARDY FOUND GUILTY.

Was Charged With Conducting Baseball Lotteries.

Cincinnati, O.—Edward Hardy, arrested here in connection with the country-wide campaign against baseball lotteries, was found guilty in Municipal Court. On his plea that he was simply an agent for men higher up and had accepted the position of agent because he could get no other work, the minimum sentence of 10 days and $50 fine was imposed, the 10 days then being remitted and the fine cut to $25, which Hardy has arranged to pay.

OUTLINES PLANS FOR LABOR INSURANCE

Department Officials Take Steps In Move To Safeguard Families.

Harrisburg.—Establishment of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund, which is to be the nucleus of the State insurance for the Workmen's compensation system, will be completed by the end of this month and an official depository will be designated.

The last Legislature appropriated $300,000 for the start of the fund and it will be increased by the sums to be paid by employers for the purpose of insuring their employes. This State fund is to be handled without liability on the part of the State. The employers who desire to go into the fund are to pay premiums by a schedule made according to the risk of injury.

The State Treasurer is to be the custodian of the fund and he will invest the money paid to the credit of the fund. The premiums are to be paid under a schedule to be issued by October 1 annually, and five per cent. will be set aside for creation of a surplus. The fund is to be directed by a board, consisting of the Commissioner of Labor and Industry, State Insurance Commissioner and State Treasurer, with the Attorney-General as counsel, and the board may name a manager at $7,500 a year and other officers. First steps in the work now are being taken by the Insurance Department officials.

Brashear Modest At Highest Honor.

Dr. John Brashear, who has been named first citizen of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by Governor Brumbaugh, takes no credit to himself, but rather gives it to his wife.

"My success in everything—even being selected as one of Pennsylvania's leading citizens," said Dr. Brashear, modestly, "I attribute to her help."

"I first consider it a joke, not knowing what it was all about," said Dr. Brashear, "until a few weeks ago, when I received a letter from an editor in Punxsutawney telling me that he had sent fourteen votes, naming me as the leading citizen. I sent that gentleman a letter and told him that he would probably be arrested for repeating.

"Why should any one name me as a leading citizen? I'm sure there were many great men in this State who could have been given the honor. While I have been honored as president and member of some of the greatest mechanical and academy of science societies in America, I consider it a signal honor to be named one of the State's leading citizens.

HIS LOVE STORY

SYNOPSIS.

—16—

Le Comte de Sabron, captain of French cavalry, takes to his quarters to raise by hand a motherless Irish terrier pup, and names it Pitchoune. He dines with the Marquise d'Esclignac and meets Miss Julia Redmond, American heiress. He is ordered to Algiers but is not allowed to take servants or dogs. Miss Redmond takes care of Pitchoune, who, longing for his master, runs away from her. The marquise plans to marry Julia to the Duc de Tremont. Pitchoune follows Sabron to Algiers, dog and master meet, and Sabron gets permission to keep his dog with him. The Duc de Tremont finds the American heiress capricious. Sabron, wounded in an engagement, falls into the dry bed of a river and is watched over by Pitchoune. After a horrible night and day Pitchoune leaves him. Tremont takes Julia and the marquise to Algiers in his yacht but has doubts about Julia's Red Cross mission. After long search Julia gets trace of Sabron's whereabouts. Julia for the moment turns matchmaker in behalf of Tremont. Hammet Abou tells the Marquise where he thinks Sabron may be found. Tremont decides to go with Hammet Abou to find Sabron. Pitchoune finds a village, twelve hours journey away, and somehow makes Fatou Anni understand his master's desperate plight. Sabron is rescued by the village men but grows weaker without proper care. Tremont goes into the desert with the caravan in search of Sabron. Julia follows with Madame de la Maine, whom Tremont loves.

CHAPTER XXIV—Continued.

At night as he lay in his bed in his tent, Tremont and Hammet Abou cooled his temples with water from the earthen bottles, where the sweet ooze stood out humid and refreshing on the damp clay. They gave him acid and cooling drinks, and now and then Sabron would smile on Tremont, calling him "petit frere," and Tremont heard the words with moisture in his eyes, remembering what he had said to the Marquise d'Esclignac about being Sabron's brother. Once or twice the soldier murmured a woman's name, but Tremont could not catch it, and once he said to the duke:

"Sing! Sing!"

The Frenchman obeyed docilely, humming in an agreeable barytone the snatches of song he could remember, "La Fille de Madame Angot," "Il Trovatore;" running them into more modern opera, "La Veuve Joyeuse." But the lines creased in Sabron's forehead indicated that the singer had not yet found the music which haunted the memory of the sick man.

"Sing!" he would repeat, fixing his hollow eyes on his companion, and Tremont complied faithfully. Finally, his own thoughts going back to early days, he hummed tunes that he and a certain little girl had sung at their games in the allees of an old chateau in the valley of the Indre.

"Sonnez les matines

and other children's melodies.

In those nights, on that desolate way, alone, in a traveling tent, at the side of a man he scarcely knew, Robert de Tremont learned serious lessons. He had been a soldier himself, but his life had been an inconsequent one. He had lived as he liked, behind him always the bitterness of an early deception. But he had been too young to break his heart at seventeen. He had lived through much since the day his father exiled him to Africa.

Therese had become a dream, a memory around which he did not always let his thoughts linger. When he had seen her again after her husband's death and found her free, he was already absorbed in the worldly life of an ambitious young man. He had not known how much he loved her until in the Villa des Bougainvilleas he had seen and contrasted her with Julia Redmond.

All the charm for him of the past returned, and he realized that, as money goes, he was poor—she was poorer.

The difficulties of the marriage made him all the more secure in his determination that nothing should separate him again from this woman.

By Sabron's bed he hummed his little insignificant tunes, and his heart longed for the woman. When once or twice on the return journey they had been threatened by the engulfing sand storm he had prayed not to die before he could again clasp her in his arms.

Sweet, tantalizing, exquisite with the passion of young love, there came to him the memories of the moonlight nights on the terrace of the old chateau. He saw her in the pretty girlish dresses of long ago, the melancholy droop of her quivering mouth, her bare young arms, and smelled the fragrance of her hair as he kissed her. So humming his soothing melodies to the sick man, with his voice softened by his memories, he soothed Sabron.

Sabron closed his eyes, the creases in his forehead disappeared as though brushed away by a tender hand. Perhaps the sleep was due to the fact that, unconsciously, Tremont slipped into humming a tune which Miss Redmond had sung in the Villa des Bougainvilleas, and of whose English words De Tremont was quite ignorant.

"Will he last until Algiers, Hammet Abou?"

"What will be will be, monsieur!" Abou replied.

"He must," De Tremont answered fiercely. "He shall."

He became serious and meditative on those silent days, and his blue eyes, where the very whites were burned, began to wear the far-away, mysterious look of the traveler across long distances. During the last sand storm he stood, with the camels, round Sabron's litter, a human shade and shield, and when the storm ceased he fell like one dead, and the Arabs pulled off his boots and put him to bed like a child.

One sundown, as they traveled into the afterglow with the East behind them, when Tremont thought he could not endure another day of the voyage, when the pallor and waxiness of Sabron's face were like death itself, Hammet Abou, who rode ahead, cried out and pulled up his camel short. He waved him arm.

"A caravan, monsieur."

In the distance they saw the tents, like lotus leaves, scattered on the pink sands, and the dark shadows of the Arabs and the couchant beasts, and the glow of the encampment fire.

"An encampment, monsieur!"

Tremont sighed. He drew the curtain of the litter and looked in upon Sabron, who was sleeping. His set features, the growth of his uncut beard, the long fringe of his eyes, his dark hair upon his forehead, his wan transparency—with the peace upon his face, he might have been a figure of Christ waiting for sepulture.

Tremont cried to him: "Sabron, mon vieux Charles, reveille-toi! We are in sight of human beings!"

But Sabron gave no sign that he heard or cared.

Throughout the journey across the desert, Pitchoune had ridden at his will and according to his taste, sometimes journeying for the entire day perched upon Tremont's camel. He sat like a little figurehead or a mascot, with ears pointed northward and his keen nose sniffing the desert air. Sometimes he would take the same position on one of the mules that carried Sabron's litter, at his master's feet. There he would lie hour after hour, with his soft eyes fixed with understanding sympathy upon Sabron's face.

He was, as he had been to Fatou Anni, a kind of fetish—the caravan adored him. Now from his position at Sabron's feet, he crawled up and licked his master's hand.

"Charles!" Tremont cried, and lifted the soldier's hand.

Sabron opened his eyes. He was sane. The glimmer of a smile touched his lips. He said Tremont's name, recognized him. "Are we home?" he asked weakly. "Is it France?"

Tremont turned and dashed away a tear.

He drew the curtains of the litter and now walked beside it, his legs feeling like cotton and his heart beating.

As they came up toward the encampment, two people rode out to meet them, two women in white riding habits, on stallions, and as the evening breeze fluttered the veils from their helmets, they seemed to be flags of welcome.

Under his helmet Tremont was red and burned. He had a short, rough growth of beard.

Therese de la Maine and Julia Redmond rode up. Tremont recognized them, and came forward, half staggering. He looked at Julia and smiled, and pointed with his left hand toward the litter; but he went directly up to Madame de la Maine, who sat immovable on her little stallion. Tremont seemed to gather her in his arms. He lifted her down to him.

Julia Redmond's eyes were on the litter, whose curtains were stirring in the breeze. Hammet Abou, with a profound salaam, came forward to her.

"Mademoiselle," he said, respectfully, "he lives. I have kept my word."

Pitchoune sprang from the litter and ran over the sands to Julia Redmond. She dismounted from her horse alone and called him: "Pitchoune! Pitchoune!" Kneeling down on the desert, she stooped to caress him, and he crouched at her feet, licking her hands.

CHAPTER XXV.

As Handsome Does.

When Sabron next opened his eyes he fancied that he was at home in his old room in Rouen, in the house where he was born, in the little room in which, as a child, dressed in his dimity night gown, he had sat up in his bed by candle light to learn his letters from the cookery book.

The room was snowy white. Outside the window he heard a bird sing, and near by, he heard a dog's smothered bark. Then he knew that he was not at home or a child, for with the languor and weakness came his memory. A quiet nurse in a hospital dress was sitting by his bed, and Pitchoune rose from the foot of the bed and looked at him adoringly.

He was in a hospital in Algiers.

"Pitchoune," he murmured, not knowing the name of his other companion, "where are we, old fellow?"

The nurse replied in an agreeable Anglo-Saxon French:

"You are in a French hospital in Algiers, sir, and doing well."

Tremont came up to him.

"I remember you," Sabron said. "You have been near me a dozen times lately."

"You must not talk, mon vieux."

"But I feel as though I must talk a great deal. Didn't you come for me into the desert?"

Tremont, healthy, vigorous, tanned, gay and cheerful, seemed good looking to poor Sabron, who gazed up at him with touching gratitude.

"I think I remember everything, I think I shall never forget it," he said, and lifted his hand feebly. Robert de Tremont took it. "Haven't we traveled far together, Tremont?"

"Yes," nodded the other, affected, "but you must sleep now. We will talk about it over our cigars and liquors soon."

Sabron smiled faintly. His clear mind was regaining its balance, and thoughts began to sweep over it cruelly fast. He looked at his rescuer, and to him the other's radiance meant simply that he was engaged to Miss Redmond. Of course that was natural. Sabron tried to accept it and to be glad for the happiness of the man who had rescued him. But as he thought this, he wondered why he had been rescued and shut his eyes so that Tremont might not see his weakness. He said hesitatingly:

"I am haunted by a melody, a tune. Could you help me? It won't come."

"It's not the "Marseillaise?" asked the other, sitting down by his side and pulling Pitchoune's ears.

"Oh, no!"

"There will be singing in the ward shortly. A Red Cross nurse comes to sing to the patients. She may help you to remember."

Sabron renounced in despair. Haunting, tantalizing in his brain and illusive, the notes began and stopped, began and stopped. He wanted to ask his friend a thousand questions. How he had come to him, why he had come to him, how he knew. . . . He gave it all up and dozed, and while he slept the sweet sleep of those who are to recover, he heard the sound of a woman's voice in the distance, singing, one after another, familiar melodies, and finally he heard the "Kyrie Eleison," and to its music Sabron again fell asleep.

Threatened by the Engulfing Sandstorm.

The next day he received a visitor. It was not an easy matter to introduce visitors to his bedside, for Pitchoune objected. Pitchoune received the Marquise d'Esclignac with great displeasure.

"Is he a thoroughbred?" asked the Marquise d'Esclignac.

"He has behaved like one," replied the officer.

There was a silence. The Marquise d'Esclignac was wondering what her niece saw in the pale man so near still to the borders of the other world.

"You will be leaving the army, of course," she murmured, looking at him interestedly.

"Madame!" said the Capitaine de Sabron, with his blood—all that was in him—rising to his cheeks.

"I mean that France has done nothing for you. France did not rescue you and you may feel like seeking a more—another career."

St, Bride of Ireland.

St. Bride, the patroness of Ireland and of Fleet street, whose feast falls in February, was the beautiful daughter of a bard who became the religious disciple of St. Patrick and abbess of Kildare. The story of St. Bride, or Bridget, fired the Celtic imagination, and in Ireland about twenty parishes bear the name of Kilbride. The spire of her church in Fleet street has been twice struck by lightning and much reduced from the original height, but is still one of the tallest steeples in London. It is supposed to have been designed by Wren's young daughter.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Have a Good Bed.

In Farm and Fireside a contributor, writing a practical article about mattresses and other provisions for beds, makes the following general comment:

"In furnishing a home the housewife should give most careful thought to the beds and their equipment. We spend at least a third of our lives in bed, and it is worth while to make that third pleasant and refreshing. The best mattresses and springs are none too good when one is storing up strength for some work. Besides, as is the case with most household purchases, the best are really the cheapest in the end."

QUAINT, DAINTY FROCK

DESIGN ESPECIALLY SUITABLE FOR YOUNG GIRL.

White Net and Azure Blue Taffeta Selected for the Costume Illustrated, Though Other Materials May Be Employed.

There is always room in a girl's summer wardrobe for the quaint, dainty little frocks designed especially for her needs, of which the illustrated model is an exceptionally pretty example. It is fashioned from white net and azure blue taffeta, and also may be made up in other materials. One of the rose-sprigged pompadour taffeta would be very sweet combined with chiffon or net, or else the entire dress might be of taffeta.

In this case the pale blue taffeta makes the little peasant bodice and the deep shirred ruffle set in an undulating line around the hips. Very narrow bias strips of the same are used in the fashioning of the small bowknots and festooned loops that trim the bottom of the skirt above a succession of narrow net ruffles. Narrow ribbon can be used, if preferred, but it should be taffeta ribbon and match exactly the blue of the bodice.

The skirt is very full, with a close line of gathers all around the waist. It can have an underskirt of net, or simply be worn over a crepe de chine or net petticoat.

The blouse, too, is of net, gathered around the neck and sleeves, then given flaring "Priscilla" cuffs and collar of sheer mousseline de soie.

The bodice is rounded out quite expansively in front, but the curve across the back is shallow, with the upper edge flared on the shoulder seams to stand away from the figure as illustrated. It hooks directly in front, with a shirred heading run the length of the seam and is trimmed with a tiny cluster of pink rosebuds at the top of the corsage. Two small lapels turn down over the top of either side. The underarm seams are also shirred with a finishing heading. The underarm shirring causes some graceful folds of drapery in the material across the back, but this only extends for a few inches above the waist.

Youthfulness Is Expressed Here in a Pretty Disposition of Net and Azure Taffeta.

SATIN TOQUE

An undyed satin toque trimmed with rabbit-ear bows of black velvet. Sorelli of Paris considers this one of the smartest creations of the season.

BUTTONS NOW IN MOLD FORM

Do Away With Trouble of Sewing, Which Most of Us Have Occasion to Remember.

Have you ever said unladylike things when you were sewing a cloth-covered button to a gown and had trouble getting the needle through the material at the back of the button? Well, you need have no more difficulty along this line, for it is now possible to procure a button mold consisting of three parts. The first part is the regular button mold—a wooden disk—the second part is a flat aluminum back and the third part is a small steel screw eye, nickel plated.

The mold is covered in the usual way by first cutting a circular piece of cloth, or whatever material you desire to use, and running a drawstring around the outer edge. The cloth is then placed over the wooden portion of the mold and the drawstring gathered in. After adjusting the gathers the metal disk, which is provided with an opening, is placed over the back of the button mold and the screw eye is inserted as a shank. The extra thread of the drawstring is then cut off and the button is complete.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Fine rep serge is a modish material.

The small girl should wear jacket effects.

There are evening coats of white taffeta.

Scallops appear on colored linen dresses.

The dress of wash silk is cool and economical.

The all-white hat of cotton crepe is smart.

The hat with a touch of cretonne is distinctly quaint.

Tussor silk and tulle are one of the new combinations.

The loose unbelted smock makes a charming design for the small boy's suit.

FEWER WHITE WAISTS SEEN

Pale Tints More and More in Evidence as the Warm Weather Makes Its Presence Felt.

The vogue of the all-white waists is going out, for the new blouses are in pale tints, yellow predominating. White crepe de chine and the soft cotton crepe are first in favor as materials.

Another notable feature of these early blouses is the "outside" finish, most of the blouses being made so as to come down outside the skirt, sometimes forming a little buttoned vest, and sometimes merely ending in sashlike loops or fastening snugly with a single buckle covered with the material.

They are all far more elaborate than in former seasons, but the frill, both single and double, has been set aside. Its death knell was sounded by the introduction of the winter suits buttoning close up to the throat, and now with summer the little waistcoat is so popular that the frill has been definitely set aside.

With it has gone the deep sailor collar, the new blouses all showing either a high flaring collar or a flat, narrow one of soft material, and in some instances the neck is finished simply with a band of the material, with frill or net inside to lend a soft finish close to the skin.

Parisian Idea.

A Parisian idea is the bolero with its lower edges turned up and faced with striped silk. The bottom of the skirt is also faced with stripes.

Belts.

Belts are by no means the plain affairs of other seasons. Some of them show large polka dots of black patent leather on a soft white kid background, or a strap of plain black kid on a white kid background. Various combinations are shown which combine effectively with the striped materials of the season. As a rule these belts look rather better with a plain shirt and skirt than with a dress that is striped, although the striped belts look very pretty with the dotted dresses. Two with long narrow black stripes to run round and round the figure would be charming worn with dotted frocks. One with as many polka dots as its circumference allows, would be especially pretty with any sort of striped skirt.—Vogue.

Dolly Varden.

That colonial styles are returning is evident. There are the full skirts, flounces, yokes and high waist lines. Dolly Varden styles, which have not been seen for many seasons, appear with these styles of former days, and are considered as attractive as they ever were. In silks they are particularly charming and are becoming very popular. The reason given for the return of these old-fashioned styles is the increased use of American made goods and the working out of American styles to fit them.

When Washing Hair.

To prevent tangling, when washing the hair, at the last rinsing float the hair out straight in the water, then comb it out while dripping, and it will not tangle and pull out as it does when dried before combing.

Tabernacle Service for Masons.

The members of Old Fort Lodge, F. & A. M., have accepted an invitation to attend divine services at the Tabernacle, Wednesday evening, August 4th, at which time Rev. Paul Brown will deliver an appropriate sermon.

LOCALS

Miss Bertha Strohmeier is visiting friends in Altoona.

Harry Leepard of Bloomsburg is spending a few weeks at the home of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gingrich.

The Union Sunday-school, at their festival at the Murray school house, near Penns Cave, on Saturday evening, realized more than forty dollars.

Mrs. Mary Crust and son, Clarence Crust, of Pleasant Gap, spent a day last week at the home of the former's son, C. T. Crust, below Centre Hall.

Mrs. Roy Betts of Johnstown, and Mrs. J. W. Brown and three children of Milroy, are guests for a week at the home of Mrs. Brown's parents, Prof. and Mrs. W. A. Krise.

The luxuriant clover in farmer John Homan's fields, east of Centre Hall, is not only affording pasture for his cattle, but for deer as well. Two of the fleetfooted animals browsed with cows very contentedly.

J. M. Moyer, proprietor of the Potters Mills hotel, will leave this (Thursday) morning for Los Angeles, California, to visit his daughter, Mrs. Walter Cunningham. He will be gone for six weeks or more.

Rev. G. W. McIlnay of Nescopeck spent a few days beginning of this week with former parishioners in this place. Rev. McIlnay enjoys the fellowship of his former Penns Valley flock and the feeling is warmly reciprocated by them.

Mrs. Mary Goodhart returned on Saturday from a five weeks' visit to her children in Johnstown, Altoona and Milroy. She was accompanied home by her grandson, Franklin Goodhart, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Goodhart, of Johnstown.

Friday afternoon at three o'clock Harry Geer, a prisoner at the new penitentiary at Rockview, made his escape but was caught next morning at four o'clock at Gregg station by two guards. Geer was serving a sentence of not less than three years and not more than five years for assault. He will be taken back to Pittsburgh and made forego the privileges of out-door life for his act.

SECOND WEEK AT TABERNACLE.

Attendance at Big Wooden Structure Increasing.—Brother of Evangelist Joins Party.

Although this is only the second week of the campaign at the big Tabernacle the crowds have been surprisingly large, notwithstanding the fact that it is in the midst of the harvest season. The management is highly pleased with the support thus far accorded by Centre Hall and vicinity.

One of the pleasing features is the large choir under the able direction of Prof. H. LeRoy Goodwin. Professor Goodwin is very much pleased with the way the members have taken up the organized work and is sure that with the spirit of unity which exists and the eagerness with which each one is trying to increase the membership, will soon give to Centre Hall a choir of 200 voices which will be second to none. Many of those who have heard the larger choirs under such men as Profs. Spooner, Henninger and Armstrong say that the way in which Prof. Goodwin handles his choir places him in the same class with these men. On Sunday afternoon at the men's meeting the men sang as they never sang before in Centre Hall.

Taken as a whole, the work of the past week has been a decided success. The union prayer meetings have been largely attended and all traces of denominationalism has been obliterated. Presbyterian, Lutheran, Methodist and Evangelical kneel side by side with the Baptists, Congregational, Reformed and others, all petitioning the Heavenly Father that each may be made efficient in this work to the end that souls be saved. Such concerted action coupled with the eloquent, yet simple, appeals to the real man, which Evangelist Brown gives out each night through his sermons, prayers and invitations, is sure to bring a glorious victory to the cause of Christ.

A sure proof of the high esteem in which the Evangelist and party are held by those with whom they have worked is evidenced by the large numbers from Millheim and vicinity who are in attendance each night. For the benefit of those who have been grossly misinformed as to the methods and style of preaching it is suggested that they "come and see."

Rev. H. M. Brown, brother of Evangelist Brown, has arrived to take his place in the ranks. He is a man of education and large ability and experience and will prove a great strength to the work. Next Sunday afternoon when Evangelist Brown is giving his lecture to women only, his brother will preach to the men in one of the churches. Let every one remember the musical program on Friday night.

The members of the Masonic Fraternity have accepted an invitation to attend divine service at the tabernacle next Wednesday night, August 4th. The meeting is open to all. The hour of the evening service has been changed from 7:30 to 7:45 to accommodate those who come in from the country.

The Dale Reunion.

The Dale re-union will be held at Oak Hall, Saturday, August 7. A general invitation is extended to all members of the Dale family and their friends to attend this re-union and enjoy the pleasures of the day.—Clement Dale.

Entertainment at Tusseyville.

Misses Gertrude Ishler and Mary Keibler, graduates of an institution for the blind, will give a high-order entertainment, under the auspices of the Y. P. E., consisting of singing, recitation, etc., in the Union church at Tusseyville, Thursday evening, July 29th. Everybody is invited. adv.

BOALSBURG.

Miss Susie Wagner of Altoona is spending part of her vacation here.

Mrs. Mary Brouse of Pine Grove Mills spent a few days in town.

I. W. Zechman of Weatherly visited at the J. F. Zechman home from Friday till Tuesday.

Quite a neat little porch was built to the house occupied by Walter Ludwig and family.

Mr. and Mrs. George Stuart of Bellevue visited with relatives at Boalsburg.

Quite a number of people from this place were among the excursionists to Atlantic City.

Harold Myers of Jacksonville, Florida, is visiting with his grandfather, D. W. Meyer.

Condo Kreamer of Altoona spent some time at the E. R. Williams home.

Mrs. Milton Sweeney of Kansas City, Kansas, is visiting with relatives in this place.

Walker Shutt lost a good horse last week, dying of colic, to which ailment it was subject.

P. F. Hoffley of Aaronsburg is visiting at the home of his daughter, Mrs. N. W. Meyer.

George Fisher and son, Harold, and Mrs. Laura Bricker, enjoyed an auto trip to Sunbury last week.

A number of young people of Boalsburg and vicinity enjoyed a moonlight picnic in McFarlane's grove on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Harry Musser entertained the members of her Sunday-school at her home at the Branch on Thursday evening.

Rev. and Mrs. R. P. Jones of Centre Hall were guests at the Reformed parsonage on Thursday afternoon; they also visited Miss Laura Keller.

Miss Amanda Mothersbaugh of Lemont and sister, Mrs. Samuel Glenn, of the Branch, spent an afternoon at Boalsburg.

Dr. and Mrs. Beach, Mrs. Harry Keller and Miss Blanchard, of Bellefonte, spent a short time in Boalsburg on Monday afternoon, on business relating to Woman's Suffrage.

Mrs. Charles Rose, with her children from the Rose home, west of Pine Grove Mills, spent a few days of last week with relatives at Boalsburg and Linden Hall.

John Slagle and daughter, Miss Lois, Mr. and Mrs. Hagen and son were an automobile party from Lock Haven who were guests at the N. W. Meyer home on Saturday and Sunday.

George Ishler and Miss Madie Gingerich of Boalsburg were united in marriage at the Reformed parsonage at Troutville on Tuesday, July 20, by Rev. A. A. Black. Congratulations are extended.

The monthly meeting of the civic club will be held at the home of Mrs. H. M. Hosterman Monday evening, August 2nd, at 8 o'clock. It is desired that all the members attend as business of importance is to be considered.

An itinerant medicine show, having its tent on the school grounds, aroused quite a bit of interest in a popularity contest in which a gold watch was given to the lady receiving the highest number of votes. Miss Beryl Brouse was the lucky girl.

Mrs. Emma Stuart, Mrs. W. H. Stuart, Mr. and Mrs. George Stuart and George E. Meyer took an auto ride to Stormstown on Thursday where they spent the day at the home of Capt. Hunter. Mr. Hunter is ninety-five years of age, enjoys good health, and has a very retentive memory. He is a veteran of the Civil war, and related some incidents of that period, and also of his school days at Pine Grove Mills.

James Everhart of the Branch was stricken with apoplexy Wednesday night of last week. Since the death of his brother, William, he has been living alone, taking his meals with his nephew, Samuel Everhart, and staying in his house during the night. Thursday morning he failed to come to breakfast, and going to his home they found him in an unconscious condition. He is in a critical condition, and his brother, Alex., of Altoona, and other relatives and friends are caring for him.

SUFFRAGE BELL COMING.

The women of the town are arranging for a reception of the Suffrage Bell, which is a perfect copy of the Liberty Bell. It will be brought to Boalsburg from Centre Hall, August 7th. A number of the officers of the State and county organization, as well as a number of others in automobiles from nearby towns, will accompany it. The ceremonies will be held in the Central Square. Speeches will be made. The time is Saturday afternoon, 2:30 o'clock. It is hoped that there will be a large attendance of men and women. All the women of the town and community are requested to help in the preparation for this reception.

E. E. Royer is having his barn reroofed.

Mrs. James Harpster is recovering from her illness.

Rev. J. C. Kelly will preach in the Presbyterian church on Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

James Everhart is slowly improving from an apoplectic stroke.

Mrs. Thomas Gates is in the Bellefonte hospital submitting to an operation for tumor trouble.

Miss Mary Homan is very successfully manipulating the wheel on a new five-passenger Ford car.

The Lutheran Sunday-school of Pine Grove will hold their annual picnic on August 7th.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Dale of Oak Hall and Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Dale spent Sunday in town.

Mrs. S. S. McCormick of Hublersburg and Mrs. Margaret Moore of State College are visiting friends in town.

Miss Mary Campbell is visiting her sister, Mrs. William Burd, at the Smoky City.

Dr. C. T. Aikens of Selinsgrove will administer the Lord's Sacrament in the Lutheran church, on Sunday morning.

C. P. Hess, an old Civil war veteran, is fast in bed nursing a broken leg, but hopes to be about to attend the big picnic at Baileyville on August 21st.

Irvin Killer motored from Pittsburg on Monday to spend a few days with his father, 'Squire Killer, who has been under the weather but is now better.

Little Kenneth, son of D. W. Thomas fell from the hay mow and alighted on the barn floor, fracturing his arm at the elbow. Dr. Woods adjusted the fracture.

J. D. Neidigh took a spin down Spruce Creek in his new Ford car on Sunday, to the Homan home. Mr. and Mrs. George Potter and Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Neidigh were in the party.

Harold M. Williams, who figured in a gas explosion in the Cambria steel works at Johnstown, last week, is at home nursing his injuries. Three of his fellow workers were killed and several crippled.

Dr. C. M. Chadwan and wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coleman, of Lancaster, have been resuscitating at the St. Elmo the past week and recreating Old Tussey, enjoying its pure breezes and sparkling water.

J. Q. Miles and W. E. Eberts of Martha, Hon. John Noll and wife of Bellefonte, registered at the St. Elmo Sunday and spent the day with their old friend, Ed. Gephart, who is getting along splendidly in his cosy quarters.

Prof. S. C. Miller of Chester, with his wife and children, is spending his summer vacation at his parental home here. The Professor has been busy aiding in husbanding the crops and incidentally getting a healthy color of tan.

Mrs. Margaret Quinn gave a birthday party, Thursday, for her niece, Ruth Kocher, and a number of young misses who came brought presents for the little lady who is just four years of age. Mrs. Quinn is a royal entertainer and the youngsters had a fine time.

It required three trains to convey the teachers (female) from State College to the base of Old Tussey where they camped among the tall cedars, enjoying a ramble high up on Old Tussey Mountain, almost towering the sky. They made a grand display on their march from the train, through town on their way to the grounds, flanked by the males for protection. Joy and gladness was stamped on the faces of the instructors of the rising generation. Hope to see them back next year.

After an absence of about a half century, Rev. D. M. Moser, a former Pine Grove boy, last Sunday very ably filled the pulpit in the Lutheran church. His father founded the congregation a century ago. Rev. Moser dwelt largely on the pilgrimage Zionward and gave some wholesome advice regarding the beautifying the city of the dead where our old fathers rest. In mingling with old friends his memory carried him back to his school days at the old academy of study and recreation at the foot hills of Old Tussey. He is now located at Gettysburg and is quite hale and hearty, and for a week is visiting the scenes of his boyhood days.

Tusseyville

Miss Kathryn Kipka is spending two weeks at the home of Ralph Rickert, at Mill Hall.

Mrs. Jane Ruble from Pittsburgh is visiting her sister, Mrs. William Mariz.

Miss Eleanor Ruble, from Altoona, spent a week with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Swartz.

Miss Sadie Lee plied her needle at the home of Mrs. Mary Ishler on Friday. She was accompanied by her niece, Isabel M. Lee, from Spring Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. Brady Beck and two children, Brady and Ethel, and Ward Beck, from Lock Haven, spent a few days among relatives and friends here and at State College.

Mrs. Charles Geary and two children, Lois and Algier, from Altoona are spending six weeks with Mrs. Geary's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Rossman.

Miss Ruth Rockey was voted the most popular lady in a contest conducted by a traveling medicine show and was awarded a silver set. Margaret Ripka received a ring for being the most popular baby.

Mrs. James Spangler went to Altoona Wednesday to spend some time with her daughter, Mrs. Edward Wolf. She was accompanied by her little grandson, Robert Wolf, who spent a month with his grandparents.

Don't Be a Kitchen Slave Any Longer

Mrs. Housewife, if you're working yourself to death with one of those kill-joys of the kitchen—a cranky, time-consuming, labor-creating coal or wood stove—you can write your Declaration of Labor Independence today by going to your dealer and buying a

NEW PERFECTION OIL COOK STOVE

It frees you from the moil and toil of carrying coal, shoveling up ashes, splitting wood, raking, waiting for the fire to come up, making a new fire, an overheated and dusty kitchen and a lot of other things that help make your life miserable.

New Perfection Oil Cook Stoves offer a safe, sane, satisfying and saving way to do your cooking. With the separate oven and fireless cooker they will do anything any other stove will do—bake, broil, roast, boil, fry, heat water for wash day and irons for ironing day. Sure they're economical. You turn them off when not in use—save fuel and money. You can regulate the flame. You're not bothered with smoke and smell because the combustion chimneys prevent that. The improved wick outlasts the ordinary kind. In fact, the New Perfection is just full of features that make a woman's work easy.

Make today your Independence Day by getting a New Perfection. Your local dealer can fix you up. Get busy now and you won't be so busy later on.

KREAMER & SON
CENTRE HALL, PA.

Mrs. Hanna Smith Dead.

Two weeks' suffering with cancer culminated in the death of Mrs. Hanna Smith at the home of her son, Robert I. Smith, in Centre Hall, Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock. Early that day she lapsed into an unconscious state from which she never emerged. Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at the home of her son, Robert Smith, and burial will be made at Linden Hall, beside the grave of her husband. Rev. W. H. Williams of the Methodist church, of which she was a member, will officiate.

Mrs. Smith was the daughter of Jacob and Polly Thomas and was born in Union county, March 4, 1834, hence was over eighty-one years of age. At the age of twenty she came to this county and lived above Centre Hall in what is known as Black Hawk. About the time of the Civil war she was married to Anthony Slater, after whose death she married Jacob Smith, who preceded her to the grave thirty-one years ago. To this union six children were born, four of whom survive, namely, Mrs. Michael Kriuse, Patton; Jeremiah C. and Robert I., Centre Hall; Mrs. Anna Elmiston, Altoona. One brother, Louis Thomas, who makes his home with his granddaughter, Mrs. Lee Markle, above Centre Hall, and two sisters, Mrs. Melchi Crotzer, of Clearfield, and Mrs. Saul Dewalt, of West Milton, also survive.

With the exception of the past four years which she spent at the home of her son, Robert Smith, Mrs. Smith lived alone at her humble home in Black Hawk since the death of her second husband. The years dealt kindly with her and she was a grand old lady, always ready to speak some good word to those about her. Her memory was keen and she retained all of her faculties up until the last.

Home From California.

After an absence of more than four months, during which time he enjoyed the natural besuties of the state of California, as well as the grandeurs of the Panama-Pacific and San Diego Expositions, Dr. G. W. Hosterman returned to his home on Monday. He left San Francisco on July 6th and enroute spent a short time with his sister, Mrs. Uriah Spangler, at Hestor, Kansas. Dr. Hosterman considers the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco a mighty American effort and well worth the time and money required to see it. It commemorates the opening of the Panama Canal and one of the features of the big show that impressed him most was a model of the big canal as it really is in its existing state. The operation of the locks, real boats, real water, railrosd trains running parallel to the canal, were all shown in miniature, but at that it was an immense imitation of the real canal. The details of operation were explained by means of a lecture delivered on a phonograph. His stay in that state was sufficiently long to experience one of California's greatest fears, namely, earthquakes. The quake which the doctor felt, however was only a mild one, but it was strong enough for him, he averred. For California as a place of residence, he indorses the sentiments of others, "For a time, fine; but there's no place in the country like Penns Valley." During his stay there he made his home with his daughter, Mrs. C. F. Shaw and her husband, Prof. Shaw, instructor in the university at Berkley.

Four Weaver Pianos Sold in One Family.

"I think we made a remarkable sale Monday morning. It was a Style 20 Weaver Piano, sold to C. H. Pangle, and this is the fourth Pangle brother to buy a Weaver Piano during the last three years. The others are Grant Pangle, J. W. Pangle, and E. F. Pangle. They are prosperous merchants and their daughters are in college taking music.

After a critical test of other pianos, they chose the Weaver.

Very truly yours,
KENYON-SHEELER CO.,
Morristown, Tenn.

The Weaver Piano is most highly prized where it is best known and by those who are in the best position to judge its genuine, artistic worth.

WHY DO WEAVER PIANOS PLEASE?

Because the Weaver Organ & Piano Co., of York, Pa., have been building pianos and organs for 45 years and have never manufactured any instruments except a good one. Their whole ambition has been to conduct a business that would grow a little higher in the respect of the public each year. Their present position as manufacturers of the Weaver—the highest standard of Piano quality so far attained—is due to that ambition.

You wouldn't be surprised that Weaver Pianos last a lifetime if you knew the men, methods and materials on which their reputation is based. Weaver Pianos are used and endorsed by many of the world's leading musicians, including Alice Nielsen, Mme. Homer, Victor Herbert, Frank La Forge, Frank Croxton and many others.

The Weaver Co. also make and sell the Charming Toned York Piano the popular Livingston Piano, and the celebrated Weaver Organ.

These Instruments are everywhere conceded to be

U. S. REJECTING GERMAN PROPOSALS, GIVES SOLEMN WARNING TO BERLIN

Not to Violate Its Rights Again—Declares Repetition of Offenses at Sea Would Be Regarded as "Deliberately Unfriendly."—Unyielding In Its Stand.

Washington. — President Wilson's latest note to the German government was made public Friday afternoon. From its sharp tone evidenced in every paragraph it is apparently Mr. Wilson's intention that the note shall be the last. In the first paragraph it states that Germany's last note, to which this is a reply, was "very unsatisfactory;" in its last paragraph it announces that the further refusal of the German government to accede to this government's demands for the safety of American lives at sea will be regarded as "deliberately unfriendly."

Following is the official text of the latest American note to Germany regarding submarine warfare, which was delivered to the Foreign Office at Berlin yesterday by Ambassador Gerard:

THE SECRETARY OF STATE TO AMBASSADOR GERARD.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,

Washington, July 21, 1915.

"You are instructed to deliver textually the following note to the Minister of Foreign Affairs:

The note of the Imperial German Government, dated July 8, 1915, has received the careful consideration of the Government of the United States, and it regrets to be obliged to say that it has found it very unsatisfactory, because it fails to meet the real differences between the two Governments and indicates no way in which the accepted principles of law and humanity may be applied in the grave matter in controversy, but proposes, on the contrary, arrangements for a partial suspension of these principles which virtually set them aside.

The Government of the United States notes with satisfaction that the Imperial German Government recognizes without reservation the validity of the principles insisted on in the several communications which this Government has addressed to the Imperial German Government with regard to its announcement of a war zone and the use of submarines against merchantmen on the high seas—the principle that the high seas are free; that the character and cargo of a merchantman must first be ascertained before she can lawfully be seized or destroyed, and that the lives of non-combatants may in no case be put in jeopardy unless the vessel resists or seeks to escape after being summoned to submit to examination; for a belligerent act of retaliation is per se an act beyond the law, and the defense of an act as retaliatory is an admission that it is illegal.

"Keenly Disappointed" By German Stand.

The Government of the United States is, however, keenly disappointed to find that the Imperial German Government regards itself as in large degree exempt from the obligation to observe these principles, even where neutral vessels are concerned, by what it believes the policy and practice of the Government of Great Britain to be in the present war with regard to neutral commerce. The Imperial German Government will readily understand that the Government of the United States cannot discuss the policy of the Government of Great Britain with regard to neutral trade except with that Government itself, and that it must regard the conduct of other belligerent Governments as irrelevant to any discussion with the Imperial German Government of what this Government regards as grave and unjustifiable violations of the rights of American citizens by German naval commanders. Illegal and inhuman acts, however justifiable they may be thought to be against an enemy who is believed to have acted in contravention of law and humanity, are manifestly indefensible when they deprive neutrals of their acknowledged rights, particularly when they violate the right to life itself. If a belligerent cannot retaliate against an enemy without injuring the lives of neutrals as well as their property, humanity as well as justice and a due regard for the dignity of neutral powers should dictate that the practice be discontinued. If persisted in, it would in such circumstances constitute an unpardonable offense against the sovereignty of the neutral nation affected.

"Principles Are Immutable."

The Government of the United States is not unmindful of the extraordinary conditions created by this war or of the radical alterations of circumstance and method of attack produced by the use of instrumentalities of naval warfare which the nations of the world cannot have had in view when the existing rules of international law were formulated, and it is ready to make every reasonable allowance for these novel and unexpected aspects of war at sea; but it cannot consent to abate any essential or fundamental right of its people because of a mere alteration of circumstance. The rights of neutrals in time of war are based upon principle, not upon expediency, and the principles are immutable. It is the duty and obligation of belligerents to find a way to adapt the new circumstances to them.

The events of the past two months have clearly indicated that it is possible and practicable to conduct such submarine operations as have characterized the activity of the Imperial German Navy within the so-called war zone in substantial accord with the accepted practices of regulated warfare. The whole world has looked with interest and increasing satisfaction at the demonstration of that possibility by German naval commanders. It is manifestly possible, therefore, to lift the whole practice of submarine attack above the criticism which it has aroused and remove the chief causes of offense.

In view of the admission of illegality made by the Imperial Government when it pleaded the right of retaliation in defense of its acts, and in view of the manifest possibility of conforming to the established rules of naval warfare, the Government of the United States cannot believe that the Imperial Government will longer refrain from disavowing the wanton act of its naval commander in sinking the Lusitania or from offering reparation for the American lives lost, so far as reparation can be made for a needless destruction of human life by an illegal act.

The Government of the United States, while not indifferent to the friendly spirit in which it is made, cannot accept the suggestion of the Imperial German Government that certain vessels be designated and agreed upon which shall be free on the seas now illegally proscribed. The very agreement would, by implication, subject other vessels to illegal attack and would be a curtailment, and therefore an abandonment, of the principles for which this Government contends and which in times of calmer counsels every nation would concede as of course.

To Uphold Rights "At Any Cost."

The Government of the United States and the Imperial German Government are contending for the same great object, have long stood together in urging the very principles, upon which the Government of the United States now solemnly insists. They are both contending for the freedom of the seas. The Government of the United States will continue to contend for that freedom, from whatever quarter violated, without compromise and at any cost. It invites the practical co-operation of the Imperial German Government at this time when co-operation may accomplish most and this great common object be most strikingly and effectively achieved.

The Imperial German Government expresses the hope that this object may be in some measure accomplished even before the present war ends. It can be. The Government of the United States not only feels obliged to insist upon it, by whomsoever violated or ignored, in the protection of its own citizens, but is also deeply interested in seeing it made practicable between the belligerents themselves, and holds itself ready at any time to act as the common friend who may be privileged to suggest a way.

In the meantime the very value which this Government sets upon the long and unbroken friendship between the people and Government of the United States and the people and Government of the German nation impels it to press very solemnly upon the Imperial German Government the necessity of a scrupulous observance of neutral rights in this critical matter. Friendship itself prompts it to say to the Imperial Government that repetition by the commanders of German naval vessels of acts in contravention of those rights must be regarded by the Government of the United States, when they affect American citizens, as deliberately unfriendly.

COMMENT ON NOTE BY NEWSPAPERS

Leading Papers Regard the Note as an Ultimatum.

ISSUE RESTS WITH GERMANY

New York World Declares That "Even the Military-mad Autocracy Of Berlin Can Have No Excuse For Mistaking Meaning.

Below will be found the editorial comments of a number of leading newspapers of the country on the President's note to Germany:

New York World.

"The United States is no longer concerned with what Germany says. It is concerned only with what Germany does.

"President Wilson's third note to the German government in respect to the issues of law and humanity raised by the Lusitania massacre is the final word of the United States. The note is not an ultimatum in form, but it is an ultimatum in substance. The Imperial government is courteously but emphatically informed that the United States intends to maintain its rights as a neutral on the high seas, without compromise and at any cost and 'that repetition by the commanders of German vessels of acts in contravention of those rights must be regarded by the government of the United States as deliberately unfriendly.'

"The issue now rests with Germany; even the military-mad autocracy of Berlin can have no excuse for mistaking the meaning of these serious and measured words.

"These demands are not excessive, and in formulating them President Wilson speaks not only for the American people, but for civilization itself. Unless the United States maintains its neutral rights 'without compromise and at any cost,' there are no neutral rights left which any belligerent is bound to respect and the whole world is given over to the terror of the sword."

New York Herald.

It is in the solemnity of its warning to the German government that the American note is most impressive. All things else, though important in themselves, dwarf into relative insignificance beside the formal notice of the government of the United States that every consideration of friendship impels it to "press very solemnly upon the Imperial German Government the necessity of scrupulous observance of neutral rights in this critical matter," and that "repetition by the commanders of German naval vessels of acts in contravention of those rights must be regarded by the Government of the United States, when they affect American citizens, as deliberately unfriendly."

New York Times.

With courage and with firmness President Wilson and Secretary Lansing have responded to the hopes and the deep convictions of the American people. In the controversy with Germany it was time that there be an end of the long parleying in which our protests and our demands drew forth only evasions and irresponsive counter proposals. The nation has now spoken in words and in a tone which leaves room for no further declarations on our part. It rests with Germany to say whether she desires the continuance of friendly relations between the two governments and the two peoples.

The words are of serious import. In diplomatic correspondence they are not employed save upon grave occasions. They are not to be lightly uttered or lightly taken.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

"When one government tells another that it is disregarding obligations it has itself admitted, committing illegal and inhuman acts in disregard of the rights and lives of neutrals, acts that if persisted in will constitute an unpardonable offense and adds that a refusal to abstain from such acts will be regarded as deliberately unfriendly, the final word of diplomacy has obviously been said. Such a final word has now been spoken by the United States to Germany. There can be no possible doubt of its meaning. The door to argument or explanation is no longer open. It is an ultimatum in fact if not in form.

Richmond Times-Dispatch.

"Wilson has closed the door on further discussion. These words amount to an ultimatum. Germany must decide whether she will keep the peace with the United States."

Birmingham Age-Herald.

"In all probability Germany's reply will be satisfactory, but President Wilson will stand by his 'last word,' and the people will stand loyally and unflinchingly with him."

ENEMY OF APPLE TREE

Woolly Aphid One of Most Serious of Insect Pests.

New Significance Put Upon Economic Status of Elm Curl by Entomologists of Maine Agricultural Experiment Station.

The discovery that the woolly aphid migrates from elm leaf to apple is a most important one.

For more than 100 years the woolly aphid has had world-wide recognition as one of the most serious insect enemies of young apple trees. Statistics based on observations made at three nurseries containing respectively about 30,000, 45,000, and 300,000 trees, showed that from 20 per cent to 25 per cent of the trees were infested by the wholly aphid. As from twenty to forty million of American-grown apple seedlings are used in this country every year, the significance of so high a percentage of infestation is at once apparent.

It is, therefore, with no slight interest that the entomologists of the Maine agricultural experiment station have been seeking to ascertain a previously unknown point in the life cycle of this pest, and have made the discovery that this cycle includes three generations which are passed in what is known as the "elm-leaf curl." The disfigured and curled leaves of the elm in the spring are everywhere as familiar as the woolly masses on the apple bark, but the elm generations have not previously been known to have any connection with the apple pest, and it has all along borne a distinct name.

But the discovery of the annual migration of a fresh infestation from the elm to the apple and the knowledge that the elm generations are an essential portion of the life cycle of the woolly aphid of the apple, and that this species cannot continue without access to the elm, put a new significance upon the economic status of the elm curl.

PREPARATIONS FOR HAY CROP

To Get Best Quality of Alfalfa It Must Be Got Into Mow or Stack Immediately After Being Cut.

Don't overlook the fact that in order to get the best quality and most marketable alfalfa hay it must be got into the mow or stack as quickly as possible after it is cut.

Give all the machinery in connection with the putting up of this crop a thorough overhauling. Look over the mowing machine; see that everything is ready. See that all the sections are securely riveted on the sickle. Have all the sickles sharpened before you start to work. If the plates on the guards are smooth it will pay to take them off and grind them; a good edge on the guard plates is very essential.

The stacker rope should be given careful attention. A considerable quantity of hay may get wet if the stacker rope gives out after a few loads go up and it is necessary to go to town for a new one. Get all these things in shape in advance, that the work once started can be pushed to the limit.

PREVENT WASHING OF SOILS

Frequent Crops of Clover or Grass Which Is Plowed Under, Making Soils Spongy, Is Best.

(By E. H. FRANKLIN.)

One of the gravest problems of the farmers of today who are living on hilly lands is how to prevent soil erosion. Much of the washing of farm lands can be prevented by plowing deep, so as to make a subterranean reservoir for the storage of precipitation. The water penetrates readily through the loose soil, and its movement through the underlying soil is very much slower than over the surface.

Frequent crops of clover or grass which are plowed under make the surface soil spongy with humus and retard the washing of the soil. All hilly lands liable to wash should have a cover crop during the winter. A warranty deed will not keep the soil of the careless farmer from washing away.

FENCES MADE VERMIN PROOF

Birds Require Protection From Various Natural Foes as Well as From Human Persecution.

Protection is the prime requisite for increasing the number of birds in any area, and the results of protection are in direct proportion to the amount given. Besides insuring birds against every form of persecution by human kind, we must defend them from various natural foes. The most effectual single step is to surround the proposed bird sanctuary with a vermin-proof fence. Such a fence should prevent entrance either by digging or by climbing, but will serve its greatest use if it cannot be climbed, and is therefore cat-proof. It is impracticable to build an impenetrable fence, the next best device is to put guards of sheet metal on all nesting trees and on poles supporting bird houses. This should be done in any case where squirrels or snakes are likely to intrude, as it is usually impracticable to fence out these animals. Tree guards should be six feet or more above ground. Attacks by hawks, owls, crows, jays, or other enemies are best controlled by eliminating the destructive individuals.

STAKE AND PRUNE TOMATOES

Habit of Plant May Be So Altered That Patch Is Scarcely Recognizable—Moisture Is Saved.

Are you staking and pruning the tomatoes this year? This is a great scheme, and if you have not tried it, do so on a demonstration scale just for variety's sake.

The tomato plant, in its frantic efforts to reproduce its kind, makes naturally an enormous vine growth with innumerable branches. The result is great green growth, a large litter of little tomatoes, and more shade than is good for best fruit development. Stake a tomato plant and prune it to a single stem, and you change all this; you alter the habit of the plant, so that the tomato patch is scarcely recognizable.

In the first place there are few leaves, only one above each fruit bunch, and this grows so huge that it is never known for a tomato leaf. Then the sun and light reaches every part of the plant and fruit, and the latter hang in clusters and attain larger size than under natural conditions. There are no little tomatoes. There is a considerable economy in space, as the tomato plants stand up straight and slender, and are mostly fruit, and none of the tomatoes have a chance to rot or mildew. Pruning is a quite a job. As a sufficiency of moisture in the soil is what largely controls the fruit yield, the pruning method, by which a much less amount of soil water is consumed than through the more luxuriant green growth of unpruned plants, will be found a great advantage in this respect.

PAPER POT FOR VEGETABLES

Handy for Keeping Different Varieties of Seeds and Plants—Roots of Plant Undisturbed.

Very convenient little pots for vegetable plants may be made from paper flour sacks or any tough paper.

Cut a piece eight inches square and fold through the middle diagonally. (Fig. 1). Fold in right hand corner over to left hand edge, like an envelope. (Fig. 2). Then fold the left hand point over in a corresponding manner. (Fig. 3). Separate the points and fold back to make a straight line. (Fig. 4). It now opens in a small box. These may be filled with rich soil and placed side by side, thus keeping different varieties of seeds or plants separate. This also saves buying pots, for when transplanted the paper can be torn off and the roots of the plant remain undisturbed.

HIS WIFE'S NAME OMITTED

Considerably Depreciated the Value of the Book Containing Speeches of Greatest Talkers.

"Sir," said the sleek-looking agent, approaching the desk of the meek-looking man and opening one of those folding thingamajigs showing styles of binding, "I believe I can interest you in this massive set of books containing the speeches of the world's greatest orators. Seventy volumes, one dollar down and one dollar a month until the price, $680, has been paid. This set of books gives you the most celebrated speeches of the greatest talkers the world has ever known, and—"

"Let me see the index," said the meek man.

The agent handed it to him, and he looked through it carefully and methodically, running his finger along the list of names.

Reaching the end he handed the index back to the agent and said: "It isn't what you claim it is. I happen to know the greatest talker in the world, and you haven't her in the index."

One Way to Lengthen Life

Late in life, when the organs begin to weaken, the hard-working kidneys often tire out first. Failing eyesight, stiff, achy joints, rheumatic pains, lame back and distressing urination are often due only to weak kidneys. Prevention is the best cure and at middle age any sign of kidney weakness should have prompt attention. Doan's Kidney Pills have made life more comfortable for thousands of old folks. A Pennsylvania Case

Robert G. Miller, 215 Ferry St., Danville, Pa., says: "The pains in my back were terrible and at times I could hardly move. There was a lameness and soreness across my loins and sometimes the kidney secretions were retarded, then again their passages were too frequent. The least cold made my condition worse. Nothing helped me until I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they rid me of all the ailments."

INEXPENSIVE SULPHUR BATHS AT HOME

People travel long distances and spend large sums of money to secure the benefits of sulphur springs and baths because for generations sulphur has been known to be one of nature's most valuable curatives unequalled as a blood purifier. By dissolving 2 to 4 tablespoonfuls of Hancock's Sulphur Compound in a hot bath you get the same effect and your system absorbs the sulphur through the pores of the skin. For prickly heat and summer skin troubles of infants and children use a teaspoonful of the Sulphur Compound in a bowl of warm water. This makes a refreshing bath and quickly alleviates the pain. Sold by all dealers, 50c. a bottle. Hancock Liquid Sulphur Co., Baltimore, Md.—Adv.

Mean Disposition.

"Before engaging rooms in your house," said the bachelor, "I want to know if there are any families with crying babies staying here."

"I'm afraid there is," replied the landlady; "but we—"

"Well, I was just going to say," continued the other, "that if there are, I want you to put me in the room next to theirs. I want to wake up in the night and hear their trouble, so that I can congratulate myself again that I'm not married."

It isn't what you say but how you say it that makes a woman either your friend or your enemy.

If the man who gives advice freely knew it was good he would probably use it himself.

IN SUCH PAIN WOMAN CRIED

Suffered Everything Until Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Florence, So. Dakota.—"I used to be very sick every month with bearing down pains and backache, and had headache a good deal of the time and very little appetite. The pains were so bad that I used to sit right down on the floor and cry, because it hurt me so and I could not do any work at those times. An old woman advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I got a bottle. I felt better the next month so I took three more bottles of it and got well so I could work all the time. I hope every woman who suffers like I did will try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. P. W. LANSENG, Box 8, Allyn, Wash.

Why will women continue to suffer day in and day out or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

BABY'S DANGER PERIOD

ESPECIAL CARE REQUIRED FROM MAY TO OCTOBER.

Thoughtful Mother May Do Much to Protect Infant From Summer Illness—Simple Rules That Must Be Observed.

(Prepared by the Children's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor.)

From May to October the baby must be guarded with special care, if he is to escape the dangers which lurk about him in the hot days of summer.

It is estimated that of the many thousands of babies who die every summer, principally in July and August, half might have been saved, since summer diarrhea may often be prevented with suitable care.

It is caused, in a large number of cases, by mistakes in the method of feeding, or by using impure milk, or other unsuitable dangerous foods, or by overheating the baby with too much clothing.

The careful and thoughtful mother may do much, therefore, to protect her baby from this illness, by avoiding, as far as possible, its various causes. Throughout this series of articles, mothers have been urged to observe certain simple rules for the health of the baby in summer. These rules require:

1. That the baby shall be fed on proper food in proper quantities at proper intervals.

2. That he shall have no food between meals, but shall have plenty of pure, cool drinking water.

3. That he shall be kept as cool as possible by fresh air, plenty of baths, and very little clothing.

4. That he shall be protected from flies and mosquitoes.

If these rules are faithfully carried out many cases of summer diarrhea will be prevented. If, however, the disease appears, the city mother should at once consult her doctor, or, if she has no physician, take her baby to the nearest infant welfare station, where competent physicians will advise her with regard to the care of the baby and trained nurses will assist her in carrying out his directions. It is of great importance to take the disease in its first stages, as a mild form of the disease readily becomes a serious one.

A Healthy Summer Baby.

In the country, where it is very difficult to get the advice of a doctor, the mother has a harder problem. Because she is out of the range of infant welfare stations, hospitals, and often of physicians as well, it is most important to prevent every attack of illness possible by careful attention to the baby's food and general care, as already advised in these articles.

If the baby is still at the breast, one or two nursings should be omitted, and only pure, cool water given in its place. Meanwhile the mother's breasts should be pumped at each usual nursing time to prevent their drying up.

Bottle-fed babies are much more likely to be the victims of summer diarrhea. When this happens, the bottle should be omitted for eight, twelve or twenty-four hours, according to the severity of the attack. Do not, however, keep food from the baby longer than twenty-four hours, except on the advice of a physician. When the bottle is resumed, the food should be much weaker than before; at least, half of the milk previously given should be substituted by water. The milk should be skimmed, and sugar should be omitted. The return to the former feeding should be made gradually, adding a little more milk each day, and beginning to add sugar. The more severe the attack has been, the more slowly should changes be made.

If the baby is on "mixed" feeding, that is, partly breast and partly bottle-fed, the bottle feedings should be omitted if diarrhea appears, and the breast given once in four or five hours, with nothing but drinking water between meals.

The Children's Bureau publishes a pamphlet called "Infant Care," which is sent free of charge to anyone sending a request to the Chief of the Children's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor, Washington. This pamphlet contains some simple directions for the care of the babies in summer which may help the mother to prevent summer diarrheas and other ailments of infancy.

Barnum's Frankness.

On one occasion Barnum had an elephant engaged in plowing on the sloping hill where it could plainly be seen by the passengers on the New Haven and Hartford railroad, an agricultural innovation that he knew would get notice of some sort in every newspaper in the country.

It was even said that he received letters from farmers far and wide asking how much hay one elephant ate, and if it were more protable to plow with an elephant than with horses or oxen.

His replies were invariably frank, and were of this purport:

"If you have a large museum in New York, and a great railway company sends trains full of passengers within eyeshot of the performance, it will pay, and pay well; but if you have no such institution, then horses or oxen will prove more economical."

After a Catch.

A man with a small mesh net was seen returning to his bungalow.

"Been out after the speckled beauties?" asked a neighbor.

"No, I'm going in after mosquitoes," replied the net bearer, with vengeance in his tones.

Contrary to the general belief, flies do not pay particular attention to baldheaded men.

A tombstone always has a good word for a man when he's down.

WHERE THE INCHES COUNTED

British Statesman's Remarkably Neat Retort to Chairman's Shaft of "Wit."

Lloyd-George's wit on the platform is well known, but here is one of the neatest retorts he ever made.

He was addressing a meeting in South Wales, according to Pearson's Weekly, when the chairman, thinking to be witty at the chancellor's expense, remarked to the audience that he was a little disappointed in Lloyd-George's appearance.

"I had heard so much about Mr. Lloyd-George," he said, "that I naturally expected to meet a big man in every sense; but, as you can see for yourselves, he is very small in stature."

Many an orator would have been grievously upset by such an unfortunate beginning to the proceedings, but not so Lloyd-George.

"I am grieved to find," he said, with mock seriousness, "that your chairman is disappointed in my size, but this is owing to the way you have here of measuring a man. In North Wales we measure a man from his chin up, but you evidently measure him from his chin down!"

After that the chairman made no more personal remarks.

The Meter's Record.

A representative of the gas department called on a householder and intimated that he was afraid something was wrong with the meter. From the official point of view, of course, meters can only show one fault, and the symptom which had cast suspicion on this meter was that it had registered less during the quarter than in the corresponding part of the previous year. But the lady of the house has a convincing explanation of the decline.

"You see," she said, "my daughter was engaged last winter. She got married in June."

The official, who was evidently a parent himself, was quite satisfied, and the meter left the court without a stain upon its high character.

Charity.

"I hates dese suspicious guys," said the panhandler.

"What have dey been doin' to you now?" asked his friend.

"A gink gives me a dime dis mornin' to git somethin' to eat, and den he follers me into a restaurant and watches me spend it."

One Explanation.

Rankin—I wonder how wrist watches came to be fashionable?

Phyle—I suppose it is because the small amount of goods used in modern gowns does not permit of pockets.

Beating the Bakers.

"Oh, I am almost tired to death!" said the woman who spends half her time addressing club meetings. "Our political economy club has been in session all day passing resolutions and drawing up petitions demanding a law regulating the price of bread. Only think! Three dollars' worth of flour costs, when baked into bread, $13. It's outrageous. We'll soon all be bankrupt. The bakers must be made to feel the power of the law. You should have been at the meeting."

"I couldn't come, I was too busy," said the calm-faced woman.

"Busy on a club day? What on earth at?"

"Baking bread," said the calm-faced woman.—New York Times.

Not Guilty.

"Hey, you big busher!" yelled an excited fan as the pitcher of the home team issued his fourth successive base on balls, forcing a runner across the plate. "Where did you learn to pitch? In a correspondence school?"

If the pitcher heard, he made no sign, but another spectator sitting near the excited one administered a stinging rebuke.

"You talk like a fish," he said scornfully. "What makes you think that dub ever learned to pitch anywhere?"

THE CENTRE REPORTER.

THURSDAY, JULY 29, 1915

Letter From Game Commissioner.

Secretary of the Board of Game Commissioners, Joseph Kalbfus, has forwarded the following letter to this office which is of importance to trappers and others killing animals on which the State pays a bounty. The letter follows:

Dear Sir:—

For the information of those who desire to secure bounties as provided for by the Act of April 15th, we beg to advise that this Act distinctly provides that in case the necessary affidavit is made before a Justice of the Peace, Alderman, or Magistrate, on forms secured from the Game Commission by such officials, the unmutilated skin or entire pelt of such animal shall be forwarded to the Game Commission, Harrisburg, and, therefore, it does not provide for the sending of the entire carcass of the animal. Furthermore, we beg to warn all claimants for bounties that they should in all cases skin the animal and cure or dry the skin before forwarding same to Harrisburg, as otherwise the postal authorities will very likely destroy the parcel containing a raw skin or carcass before it reaches Harrisburg because of the fact that such raw skin or carcass has become offensive during transit, and under such conditions your claim would be entirely lost. Therefore, in the future do not send anything except the cured or dry skin (not the carcass) to the Game Commission, Bounty Division, Harrisburg, Pa. We are trying to help you, and hope you will help us by complying with the above.

Respectfully yours,
JOSEPH KALBFUS,
Secretary, Game Commission.

Gave Birth to Three Calves.

Mrs. John Haines, who was taken to the Bellefonte hospital three weeks ago, is improving and is anxiously waiting to come home.

Mrs. Herbert Hosterman and children, after spending four weeks with her parents, returned to her home in Buffalo on Friday morning.

The carpenters, masons, and other mechanics are busy completing the school building. No principal has yet been elected.

The many friends of Mrs. Maria Deshler, one of our aged ladies, are glad to learn that she is gaining strength rapidly.

Mrs. J. Warren Bower was the guest for a week of her brother, George Bright, near Tusseyville.

Bruce Homan of Madisonburg was the Sunday guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Homan.

Miss Annie Sahm of New Berlin called on some of her friends last week. Forty-three years ago her father, now deceased, was pastor of the local Lutheran church.

Mrs. L. K. Lenker and daughter, Miss Susan, and son James of Lemont, spent a day at Lewistown with relatives.

Lawrence Wence and family, and Elizabeth Krader, spent Sunday with the latter's parents at Spring Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Vonado and son Harry spent Sunday at the home of the former's parents near Centre Hall.

Gurnee Wert of Philadelphia paid his annual visit to his mother, Mrs. J. J. Feidler.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Shaffer from Rebersburg autoed to the home of the former lady's brother, Charles Wolfe, where they enjoyed a fine supper before leaving for their home.

Frank Mensch of Philadelphia and Mr. and Mrs. Styers of Cowan, Union county, autoed to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gillard Eisenhauer.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Peircy of New York city are making their annual visit to the home of the former's mother, Mrs. Caroline Maize.

Mrs. Leo Hain from Sunbury is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Crouse.

Mrs. E. G. Meyer of Los Angeles, California, is spending some time at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Geesey. She is a niece of Mrs. Geesey.

Mrs. Anna Mary Kreamer of Lock Haven spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fehle.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kerstetter from Rebersburg were visitors at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Weaver on Sunday.

Mrs. Cora Bartges and her two children of State College were Sunday visitors at the home of her father, Henry Stephen.

LOCALS

Chas. D. Bartholomew and Ed. L. Bartholomew spent a few days this week at Atlantic City and Philadelphia.

Dr. and Mrs. John Hardenburg, Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Aumar, and Ezra Keene, of Millheim, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Geary, on Sunday.

Cleveland Mitterling went to Collegeville on Friday and on Sunday joined the Centre Hall excursionists at Atlantic City.

Miss Hazel Emery is enjoying a camping expedition in Mifflin county with her friend, Miss Helen Weidersaul, of Reedsville, and others.

Prof. and Mrs. W. R. Jones and baby daughter, of Spring Mills, spent a few days at the home of Mr. Jones' parents, Rev. and Mrs. R. R. Jones.

Rev. and Mrs. R. P. Longwell and little daughter, of New Albany, were guests of the former's brother, Dr. H. H. Longwell, for a few days last week.

Jacob Sprow, of near Centre Hall, was slightly injured on Friday when he was struck on the ribs by the handle of a plow while plowing for potatoes. The implement struck a stone which caused the handle to deal him a severe blow in the side. No ribs were broken but Mr. Sprow suffered much pain.

Contracts have been awarded by the trustees of the Lutheran church at Yeagertown for the erection of the new church building, to be located on the site of the present one erected sixty-five years ago. The building will be constructed of Paxtonville red brick, approximately fifty by 100 feet, and will cost $11,600.

William H. Calhoun, who as leader of the I. O. O. F. orphans' band, made such a favorable impression while in Centre Hall on the occasion of the celebration by the local lodge recently, has accepted a position as a member of the faculty of the Odd Fellows Orphanage and will now devote his entire time to its interests.

Harvey Kuhn, youngest son of J. C. Kuhn, of Old Fort, narrowly escaped serious injury Thursday evening when he was caught by the spikes of a hay loader and a chunk of flesh torn from his right leg. Stopping the wagon at the right moment undoubtedly saved the lad from serious injury, for the spikes in taking hold of him had doubled him up and were drawing him in to the machine. The accident happened on the Bradford farm, tenanted by Harry C. Reish. The lad had been warned repeatedly to keep away from the rear of the wagon.

The Atlantic City one-day excursion, conducted by the P. R. R., over the local branch, proved a popular one. The crowds were so large that it was necessary to run three sections, two leaving Bellefonte and one leaving Coburn. The excursion train left Centre Hall at eleven o'clock Saturday night and arrived at two o'clock Monday morning. Sixty-four tickets were sold from this place; more than five hundred paid their three dollars from Bellefonte, one hundred and ninety-seven from Lemont, thirty from Oak Hall, thirty from Spring Mills, and eighty-two from Coburn.

Potters Mills

Mrs. C. S. Thomas returned home from New York on Friday.

There has been quite an excitement at this place since the medicine show has come.

Mr. and Mrs. Horton from Bellefonte spent a week at the hotel.

Mrs. Immel and Mrs. Michael Smith attended the installation of the Ladies' Temple at Spring Mills.

Jesse McClenahan returned home with a new seven passenger Paige car.

Joseph Carson made a trip to Bellefonte on Saturday evening.

John Wagner and son spent Sunday at their home at this place.

Boyd Smith took a trip to State College.

Edward Brown lost one of his horses last week.

Ashbridge Thomas visited this place on Saturday.

CENTRAL STATE NORMAL SCHOOL.

Charles Lose, Principal.

The property of this school, now owned and controlled by the state, consists of 32 acres of land, occupied by 13 buildings. The central building is beautiful in design, substantial in construction, convenient in arrangement. This is the student's home.

Thousands of graduates have gone from this school well equipped for life's work. The instruction is both academic and professional. Send for a catalogue.

NEWS OF 1881.

Notes Taken From Files of The Centre Reporter of Thirty-four Years Ago.

October 6th—Rev. S. G. Shannon will preach at Tusseyville next Sunday, in the morning, and at Centre Hall in the afternoon.

Deputy Carr, C. M., I. O. O. F., of Milesburg, installed the officers of Centre Hall lodge Tuesday evening.

Died—On 25 ult., in Potter township, Mrs. Henriette, wife of Adam C. Ripka, aged twenty-eight years. On 7th ult., Hannah, wife of J. F. Sweeney, aged twenty years.

October 13th—About $1000 was realized at the Centre county fair for admission.

Mr. Shultz, on Hoffer's farm, near town, obtained about five tons of tobacco from ten acres of ground.

John Hinebach of the Loop shot a bald eagle the other day, measuring 5 feet, 6 inches, from tip to tip. The eagle was distant about 60 yards. Mr. Hinebach is now 91 years old.

Last Saturday afternoon as Mrs. Wolf, mother of John Wolf, near Centre Mills, and a daughter of Mrs. Wolf, were near their home on their return from Union county, their horse made a sudden start by which both the ladies were thrown out over the back of the buggy, striking the hard ground, and severely injuring both, especially the aged lady.

Ezra Krumbine has purchased a steam engine for use in his furniture factory.
